Emergency crews have found the body of a missing swimmer in a Tri-state creek Wednesday night.

A group of five cousins were hanging out near Banklick Creek in Taylor Mill when one of the teenagers in the group decided to go for a swim.

He ran into some trouble and asked for his cousins for help but none of them could swim.

Boone County Water Rescue searched for him for two and a half hours.

Police are not identifying the teen because his parents are in Mexico.

This is the fourth drowning in just three days in the Tri-state.
